Western Filter Co. bolsters filtration solutions with PECOFacet

TULSA, Okla. (May 2, 2016) - Western Filter Co. (WFC), a longtime distributor of engineered products for the midstream industry, announces that it is now also offering PECOFacet products and technologies as part of its filtration solutions for the six influential gas processing states it serves.

PECOFacet, headquartered in Mineral Wells, Texas, is a leading manufacturer of filtration and separation products for the oil and gas, aviation, marine, environmental and general industrial markets. PECOFacet is a division of CLARCOR Inc. (NYSE: CLC), which provides a diverse offering of filters and filtration solutions around the world.

WFC, originally incorporated in Texas in 1964, is headquartered in Tulsa, Okla., but also has offices/warehouses in Oklahoma City, Hobbs, N.M., and Mineral Wells, Houston, Longview and Odessa, Texas. Chris Lindenberg, owner and president, has led the corporation since 1984.

In representing PECOFacet, WFC will focus on its in-the-field strengths in serving the gas processing and compression facilities located throughout Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Kansas, Arkansas and Louisiana.

"In my 38 years in this business, we have always viewed PECOFacet as the filtration leader for the natural gas industry," Lindenberg said. "Our large distribution footprint in this important energy region, coupled with this technology-leading manufacturer of filtration products, will add considerable value to the way we take care of our customers right where they work ... in the field."

WFC has 27 employees, with an average tenure of 13 years each. Four have been with the company for more than 20 years. The experience of its technical field representatives has led to the company's reputation of being a responsible problem solver of operation challenges, while also being mindful of filtration solution costs.

"We're quite familiar with the majority of PECOFacet products relevant to what we do, but extensive training has already begun to bring us totally up to speed with their latest and finest technologies. Most important to WFC and PECOFacet in this new relationship though, is that our customers benefit first and foremost from our combined knowledge, products and services. That's just good business," Lindenberg added.

The name PECOFacet was formed in 2007 when CLARCOR purchased Perry Equipment Corporation (PECO). Facet International became part of the CLARCOR group in 1999.
